Kristen's fans love her, and they need NO APOLOGIES

Kristen Stewart walks the red carpet for the premiere of her film On the Road at Ryerson Theatre in Toronto on Thursday. It's the embattled actress's much-awaited first public appearance since a very stirring breakup with Twilight co-star Robert Pattinson in July. Some fans held up her photograph along with the words: "Talent. Beauty. Strength & Courage. We stand by you Kristen always." For more TIFF coverage, see pages 30 to 33. Verdict that might oust mayor likely to take weeks

Waiting game. Lawyers predict such a momentous decision will not be rushed

A verdict in Mayor Rob Ford's conflict-of-interest case could come down as early as four weeks from now, prominent municipal-law experts believe.

Municipal law specialist John Mascarin predicts Justice Charles Hackland will return with a ruling for the hearing, which wrapped Thursday, by November.

"Justice Hackland is the chief judge in the eastern region. My sense is that (because) he's always on his guys to deliver timely judgments, I predict a decision in one to two months," said Mascarin, a partner at Aird and Berlis LLP.

But it's a verdict Hackland won't rush, Mascarin added.

Insignificant amount?

"He has clearly breached the act. There is no question. The only question is whether (Ford will be let off) because the amount is so small."

Municipal law specialist John Mascarin

At stake is Ford's job. Never before has such a high-profile Canadian politician been in this position, he said.

For this reason, municipal lawyer Freya Kristjanson, who represented Mayor Hazel McCallion during the Mississauga Judicial Inquiry, believes Hackland could take much longer.

"There is no 'typical.' The potential to remove a mayor from office is one any judge would want to review carefully," she said. "I'd be surprised if it's less than a month. Given the issue and public importance, I'd predict between four weeks and four months."

Kristjanson did not want to comment on how Hackland may rule, but Mascarin said he believes there is a very good chance that Ford is going to lose his job.

"There is an exception for an insignificant amount of money," Mascarin said. "I'd be surprised if Judge Hackland (accepts that argument) though."

Ford is accused of violating the Municipal Conflict of Interest Act for speaking, and then voting on, an item at council which lawyer Clayton Ruby alleges was financially beneficial.

The city's integrity commissioner had ordered Ford to repay $3,150 in donations to the mayor's private football foundation, because Ford had used city materials to solicit donations.

Body-parts case

Torso found in lake confirmed to be Guang Hua Liu

Guang Hua Liu. CONTRIBUTED

The torso discovered in Lake Ontario on Wednesday belongs to Guang Hua Liu, Toronto police confirmed Thursday.

A post-mortem on Thursday afternoon showed the torso, discovered in a suitcase, belongs to the 41-year-old Scarborough spa owner and mother of three whose body parts were found scattered across the GTA last month.

The results mean the investigation has been turned over to Peel Region police, who are handling the investigation into Liu's death.

Two boaters discovered the suitcase Wednesday morning more than two kilometres offshore, and took it ashore at Bluffer's Park in Scarborough.

Police confirmed the contents of the suitcase were human remains; the homicide squad arrived shortly afterward. Police initially couldn't say whether the remains were male or female.

Chun Qi Jiang, 40, the victim's estranged boyfriend, has been charged with second-degree murder.

Jiang was arrested on Aug. 26, just over two weeks from the day that Liu was last seen alive. His next court appearance is on Sept. 10.

NDP take Kitchener, block Liberal majority

Ontario byelections. Government holds onto Vaughan, but loses to popular school trustee in Kitchener-Waterloo

Premier Dalton McGuinty's hopes of forming the majority government the Liberals missed by just one seat last October were dashed Thursday by voters in one of two Ontario byelections.

The Liberals were able to hold Vaughan, the riding just north of Toronto vacated by former finance minister Greg Sorbara, with Steven Del Duca taking 50 per cent of the popular vote to easily defeat Conservative Tony Genco. The NDP was a distant third.

But Kitchener-Waterloo turned into a close three-way race, with New Democrat Catherine Fife emerging to win the large, urban riding for the first time in the party's history.

McGuinty engineered the byelection by appointing veteran Progressive Conservative Elizabeth Witmer to a $188,000-a-year post as head of the Workplace Safety and Insurance Board, convincing her to give up the seat she'd held for 22 years.

Backed by support from teachers and public sector workers angry with the Liberals for trying to impose a two-year wage freeze, Fife — a popular school trustee — came from behind to take the riding.

PC Leader Tim Hudak had downplayed expectations, calling Kitchener-Waterloo more of an Elizabeth Witmer riding than a Tory riding, and with an NDP win preventing a Liberal majority, he won't face challenges to his leadership for failing to hold the seat.

Library technician Joe Walsh, 53, said he voted for Fife, noting the teachers' unions weren't about to turn to the Conservatives, who want to get even tougher with the wage freeze than the Liberals.

"This is historically a very blue Tory riding, but Hudak's really got the teachers on his back now, and there's nowhere for McGuinty supporters to get except NDP."

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberal track record

The Tories and NDP had urged voters not to give the Liberals a majority, accusing McGuinty of picking a fight with teachers to distract from the scandal at the Ornge air ambulance service and the $190-million cost of shutting down a generating station days before last fall's election to save Liberal seats in the Mississauga area.

Infantry ceremony

Prince Edward to visit Hamilton

Prince Edward will visit Hamilton on Sept. 15 to take part in the 150th anniversary celebrations of the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry.

Edward will be the reviewing officer for a rare military Trooping of the Colour ceremony on the tarmac at the Canadian Warplane Heritage Museum.

Officials say the Prince will fly directly into Hamilton airport.

The event is expected to last about an hour, and will be followed by a private tour of the Canadian Warplane Heritage Museum.

Other guests of honour will include Lt.-Gov. David Onley and Canadian army Cmdr. Lt.-Gen. Peter Devlin.

The public is invited to attend, but the public space is standing-room only. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Greater risk of heart attacks among men sexually abused as kids: Study

U of T. Increased 'fight-or-flight' response that survivors often develop is a health risk, says researcher

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

New research from the University of Toronto has found evidence that men who were sexually abused as children have a higher risk of suffering a heart attack as adults — perhaps because the fight-or-flight instinct they develop is damaging to their hearts.

"We were actually surprised by the findings," said lead study author Esme Fuller-Thomson. "We found that males who were sexually abused had a much higher risk of heart attack than those males who had not been abused, but we didn't find that association for women."

The researchers used data from a large 2010 survey by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which included 57 men and 154 women who had reported penetrative sexual abuse, but not physical or verbal abuse, before they turned 18.

The men who had been abused were three times more likely than other men to have had a heart attack, even after the researchers statistically eliminated other risk factors including health, lifestyle and socio-economic elements, says Fuller-Thomson.

The data don't indicate why there was a different result for men and woman.

"I'm concerned, and I hypothesize, that males were less likely to seek out support or therapy than women might have been," said Fuller-Thomson.

Another potential aggravating factor may be the anti-gay stigma that male victims abused by male perpetrators are exposed to, she adds.

Fuller-Thomson says the heart-attack risk may come from the "flight-or-fight" instinct childhood sexual-abuse survivors often develop.

Children who are abused naturally become hypervigilant in looking out for danger, and that can become "biologically imbedded" in them as adults, says Fuller-Thomson. Hyper-vigilance causes the body to produce higher levels of the hormone cortisol, which is damaging to the heart, she says.

Stars come out to play for American Beauty live reading

Toronto-born actor Sarah Gadon, left, poses with a fan at the American Beauty reading at Ryerson Theatre on Thursday. Bryan Cranston, Christina Hendricks, Woody Harrelson and CBC's George Stroumboulopoulos were also on hand for TIFF's surprise live reading, overseen by Juno director Jason Reitman. The film, about the dark side of American suburbia, premiered at TIFF 13 years ago. For TIFF coverage, see pages 30-33. PETER BREGG/GETTY IMAGES

Experts' take

Professionals say they see the physical fight-or-flight response persist in male sexual abuse survivors into adulthood.

- "They do have serious issues around anger management. Either they close down or they fight," said Lynn MacDonell, a psychotherapist who works with male victims of sexual abuse in Toronto. "Probably all of the men I work with have either that fight-or-flight, a higher propensity to that experience."
- Rick Goodwin, a social worker and the executive director of the Men's Project, says he isn't too surprised by the gender difference the U of T researchers found. "Women tend to freeze and men fight," said Goodwin. "We also know that men are lousier at emotional self-care." When men ignore their physical and emotional needs, this can manifest in numerous physical problems, he says.
- Nancy Mayer, a Toronto-based social worker who specializes in treating childhood sexual-abuse survivors, says the fight-or-flight instinct emerges when the victim's young nervous system comes under attack by an abuser. "Kids have to try to find a way to survive that at a time when their brains are developing and their bodies are developing," she said. She says the study adds to growing literature about the adverse physical effects of childhood sexual abuse — from risk of cancer to asthma — that adults of both gender face.

Real estate. GTA housing prices surge in August as condo market cools

The unrelenting demand for the Holy Grail of housing — a simple house in the midst of all those glass and steel condos — helped push up GTA house prices 6.5 per cent in August, despite a 12.5 per cent downturn in sales.

And the biggest impact, by far, was on the downtown Toronto condo apartment market where sales dropped 34 per cent, resulting in an overall 22 per cent decline in condo sales across the City of Toronto.

While housing experts had been expecting to see continued declines — and some acknowledged 34 per cent was "a pretty big number" — there was no evidence of a mass sell-off of condos by investors and the numbers were skewed somewhat by the fact 2011 was a record year for sales, they noted.

Universities look into year-round schooling

The Ontario government is asking post-secondary institutions for feedback on a number of proposed changes, including more year-round campuses as a way to let students fast-track and make better use of buildings that often sit idle during the summer.

However, the Undergraduate Student Alliance warns that most students still need the summer off to make money for higher learning, so those who could afford to take summer programs might be from higher income families, whereas less affluent classmates could be forced to go into more debt.

United Way sets up 2012 campaign

Latest target. The agency wants to raise $116 million for its campaign goal

United Way Toronto launched its 2012 fundraising campaign setting the goal at $116 million and inviting residents to share their visions of the city online.

The cheers of hundreds of supporters, volunteers, frontline agency workers, CIBC employees and other donors echoed through the financial district after the target was revealed Thursday.

"Can we do it? Can we do it?" United Way president and CEO Susan McIsaac asked the enthusiastic crowd gathered for the launch at CIBC Commerce Court.

"Yes," was the resounding answer.

And that was music to McIsaac's ears.

Money raised will support 200 United Way Toronto member agencies, programs and services.

There are those who need a helping hand, said Gerry McCaughey, CIBC president and CEO and the UWT 2012 campaign chair, adding children are still going to school hungry, seniors who are isolated and young people marginalized.

"Support for United Way is critical," he said as he urged donors to dig deep. "Your gifts improve hundreds of thousands of lives."

THE TTC IS ON THE MOVE WITH NEWS FOR YOU

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

Welcome to this, the inaugural page of Toronto Moves.

Each Friday, the Toronto Transit Commission will have a single page in your Metro News, sharing important need-to-know, as well as nice-to-know, information with you, our customer.

This is an exciting partnership between the TTC and Metro News and is a further step in our push to make the TTC more open about the way it does things. It is part of an emerging five-year plan that will transform our performance and deliver higher-quality services that make you feel valued.

As Toronto's leading commuter newspaper, Metro News recognizes the value of providing you with information to make your TTC experience a more enjoyable one.

From learning about weekend events and how to best get there by public transit, to changes to service, to future improvements and enhancements to your TTC, this page will bring it all to you here and online.

But we want to hear from you too. In future editions, we'll answer reader and customer questions. We'll make sure you know how to contact us, whether it's to share a concern, an employee compliment, how to plan an outing using our Internet Trip Planner, or how to get up-to-the-minute information about TTC service.

For our first edition, we introduce you to a TTC employee whose quick actions and superb training may well have prevented serious injury or worse back on Aug. 20. We also explain the importance of the Student Photo ID, including post-secondary students, and why it's important to always have it with you when paying your discounted fare. We'll also share quick facts about the TTC that you may not have known.

The TTC has a long and proud history of serving the people of Toronto. We're transforming the TTC and modernizing to meet the needs of this great city. Our goal is to be a transit system that makes Toronto proud — better communication is a key part of delivering that vision.

Welcome aboard!

HAILED AS A HERO

TTC Operator Ewa Kozlowska and a busload of her customers almost got the jolt of their lives on what was a routine bus ride on Aug. 20.

Instead, they found themselves trapped on the 45 Kipling route for more than an hour under live power lines, which came crashing down on them when a nearby crane toppled.

Kozlowska has been driving for the TTC for five and a half years. But it was an hour on the job that she won't soon forget. "Everything just came crashing down on the bus. I could see in my mirror several poles on the ground and thick wires all over the bus like a spider web," she said.

She immediately sprang into action.

"I hit the emergency button and told my passengers that ... live wires were in contact with the bus so staying put was the safest thing to do."

Kozlowska is being hailed as a hero, but she's just grateful no one on board was injured. She attributes the happy ending to her training, TTC supervisors who kept in contact through onboard announcements, and help from Margaret, a 75-year-old security guard on board, who played a supporting role in keeping passengers calm and upbeat.

CLOSURES

The Yonge-University-Spadina line will be closed from King to St. Andrew stations on Saturday, Sept. 8, and Sunday, Sept. 9, to allow for construction activity at Union Station, as part of the modernization and second-platform work that is underway there. Frequent, accessible shuttle buses will operate between King and St. Andrew Stations.

TIP OF THE WEEK

BACK-TO-SCHOOL METROPASSES

Are you a full-time student living or attending school in the GTA? If so, you are eligible for a TTC Student or Post-Secondary Student Metropass. For just $104 a month, students in Toronto, Durham, Halton, Peel or York Region can enjoy easy, convenient, unlimited travel.

The Student Metropass is available at TTC Collectors in subway stations or at participating TTC Fare Media Sellers. Post-Secondary Student Metropasses can also be purchased at Pass Vending Machines.

Religious hate crime?
Victim testifies in beard-cutting attack

A bishop for a deeply traditional religious group in the U.S. told a jury Thursday that his chest-length beard was chopped close to his chin in a late-night home invasion by members of a breakaway group now accused of hate crimes.

Myron Miller, 46, told a U.S. District Court jury that he had been concerned about cult-style brainwashing by the group. He testified against 16 fellow Amish in a trial notable because the Amish are usually reluctant to involve outside authorities in their affairs.

Government prosecutors say five such beard- and hair-cutting attacks are religious-based hate crimes. The defence calls them internal church discipline.

Hair and beards have spiritual significance in the Amish faith. Amish men do not shave their beards after marriage, believing it signifies their devotion to God.

"I tried to get away," said Miller, testifying how four or five men dragged him by the beard out of his farmhouse Oct. 4 and wrestled him to the ground.

The defendants could face lengthy prison terms if convicted on charges that include conspiracy and obstructing justice. Attorneys for the defendants have not denied that the hair cutting attacks took place and said members of the breakaway group took action out of compassion and concern that some Amish were straying from their beliefs.

Prosecutors say the leader of the breakaway group, Sam Mullet Sr., was involved in "sexual counselling'' of women in his community. He hasn't been charged with sex-related crimes.

Mullet has denied ordering the hair-cutting but said he didn't stop anyone from carrying it out. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Man built dungeon in farmhouse, court told

Intent to kidnap.
White pleaded guilty to break-and-enter charges, but claims he never intended to hurt or kill anyone

The man who built a confinement room in an abandoned farmhouse did so with the intention of kidnapping a woman who had provided support to his ex-wife, a court has heard.

Robert Edwin White insisted upon his arrest in early 2012 that he never intended to hurt or kill anyone, and that no one but himself had ever been in the dungeon he constructed in the basement of a Pickering farmhouse, according to facts read into the record Wednesday.

White, 44, pleaded guilty to a charge of break-and-enter with intent to commit an indictable offence. He remains in custody pending a sentencing hearing.

White was arrested by Durham police in February, months after the discovery of the confinement room in a house slated for demolition on the Pickering airport lands. The room, discovered by a worker last November, was heavily reinforced and insulated, with double-paned windows and a three-inch door made of multiple planks of plywood, prosecutor Dave Slessor told Justice Mary Teresa Devlin.

There was a bench in the newly painted room and chains hung from the ceiling. The door was bolted from the outside with tire irons, court heard.

"It can't be opened from the inside once it's bolted from the outside," Slessor said. "There would be no getting out."

Security workers patrolling the area had written down the licence-plate number of White's Mercedes-Benz, which had been seen parked near the farmhouse on a couple of occasions.

The Concession 7 farmhouse was destroyed by a deliberately-set fire last January. There's no evidence linking White to that occurrence, police have said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Charges

White was arrested Feb. 13. He was also charged with attempted kidnapping, but that charge was withdrawn when he pleaded guilty to the break-and-enter charge.

- The investigation revealed the intended kidnapping target was a woman who had assisted White's ex-wife emotionally and financially after her separation from him.
- Defence lawyer Paul Affleck said White concurred with the facts read into the record, but that he insisted he never intended to demand a ransom for his kidnapping target.

No investigation over naked photos

Britain's press watchdog said Thursday it will not for now open an investigation into a tabloid's publication of nude photos of Prince Harry because royal officials have not filed a formal complaint.

The Sun was Britain's only national newspaper to carry the pictures of Harry frolicking in the nude with an unidentified woman in Las Vegas after the images appeared online and drew international attention.

The Press Complaints Commission said it received around 3,800 complaints after The Sun published the pictures, but royal officials were not among those filing. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

16 charges for alleged PQ gunman

Three of first-degree murder. Weapon was legally registered long gun; Bain also hit with arson accusation

The man accused in the deadly shooting at a Parti Quebecois gathering was slapped with 16 criminal charges on Thursday, including first-degree murder, three counts of attempted murder and arson.

The weapon used in the shooting was a legally registered long gun and was part of a broader arsenal of arms that were nearly all registered, authorities said.

None of the charges relates to premier-designate Pauline Marois, who was giving her victory speech Tuesday night when the shooting occurred. However, prosecuting attorneys said additional charges could be added.

Suspect Richard Henry Bain appeared to face the charges in a high-security courtroom behind protective glass.

Bain was represented by a legal-aid lawyer. She did not request a psychiatric evaluation for her client.

His case returns to court on Oct. 11.

Bain, who turns 62 this weekend, arrived at the courthouse in the back seat of a police vehicle as media waited outside.

The only images of him circulating so far had been from the scene outside the Metropolis club, after one man was killed and another was injured during a political celebration. An older photo of him standing next to Celine Dion has also been published in the local newspaper in Mont-Tremblant, Que., where he lives.

Little is known about the fishing-camp owner and what possible motivations police might have identified for the shooting on election night.

A man burst into the back of the club and shot two people, killing a stage technician. A work colleague says the victim, Denis Blanchette, had replaced her earlier in the day because she wanted to vote and pick up her daughter at school.

Police say the suspect then lit a fire in back of the club before he was tackled to the ground. Several weapons were confiscated — including the long gun allegedly used in the shooting. As he was being whisked to the police vehicle, Bain shouted, "The English are waking up." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liberals reveal rules for leadership race

Campaign. Some fear leadership decision could be swamped by casual observers, non-Liberals, political provocateurs or embarrassing aliases

The Liberal party is casting its doors wide open in a bid to have what interim chief Bob Rae calls "the broadest-based leadership contest in the history of the country."

Minnie Mouse, however, need not apply — either as a candidate or as a voter.

Campaign rules announced by the party Thursday appear designed to discourage penny-ante political gadflies and reward candidates with muscular fundraising skills, while simultaneously inviting as many Canadians as possible to cast a ballot next April 14.

With the once-mighty Big Red Machine down to 35 seats and third-party status in the House of Commons, many Liberals feel the party has to get this leadership race right.

A new class of non-dues-paying "supporters" has been created, a decision made last winter after intense debate at a national policy convention.

Candidates will be able to recruit paying party members or non-paying supporters up to 41 days before decision day.

"I had Minnie Mouse's support in 2006," Rae, a two-time federal leadership contender, quipped. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Restaurant co-owner found guilty in criminal libel case

A co-owner of an Ottawa restaurant was found guilty Thursday of sending a lewd email and creating a fake adult dating website profile of a customer who left a negative online review of the establishment in 2009.

Marisol Simoes was charged with two counts of defamatory libel after customer Elayna Katz accused Simoes of sending emails to her employer — the Federation of Canadian Municipalities — which described her as a "tiger in the bedroom."

Katz said she had a negative experience at the Mambo Nuevo Latino restaurant on May 28, 2009 and never was able to speak with Simoes about the bad service.

Simoes was also accused of taking a photo of Katz from a photo-sharing website to create a fake profile on adultcyberdating.com.

In her decision, Justice Lahaie said the Crown proved beyond a reasonable doubt the identity of the person who sent those emails and created the website profile.

Simoes was the only person "with a strong motivation" to commit these offences, Lahaie said.

Simoes will be sentenced on Nov. 8.

Officials on defensive after girl went unnoticed at murder site

Found 8 hours later.
Pair of sisters, 4 and 7, placed under police care following French shooting rampage that killed 4 adults

French authorities struggled Thursday to explain why no one found a four-year-old girl for eight hours at a blood-strewn crime scene as she huddled in a car under the skirt of a corpse — apparently her dead mother or grandmother.

The stunning discovery Thursday of the girl, apparently unharmed, heightened the drama around a mysterious shooting rampage in the French Alps that left four adults dead and a seven-year-old girl hospitalized after being shot and brutally beaten.

The reason for the slayings remained unclear a day after a cyclist came across the corpses in a wooded area near the mountain village of Chevaline. It took on increasingly international ramifications, with links emerging Thursday tying the slain family to Britain, Iraq and Sweden.

International links

- The prosecutor said the car was registered to a British man born in Baghdad. He said the man, who had moved to Britain in 2002, and his family had been vacationing in France since August.
- Sweden confirmed that one of the victims was Swedish. French authorities found a Swedish passport that appears to be that of an older woman slain in the car, born in 1938, as well as an Iraqi passport.

Prosecutor Eric Maillaud said investigators were searching for suspects and studying all possibilities, including a score-settling attack or simply that the family was "in the wrong place at the wrong time."

The bodies of a man and two women were found shot to death in a BMW and the body of an unrelated male French cyclist was found on the ground nearby. Maillaud described a methodical killing, with three victims shot in the head.

At a news conference, authorities tried to explain how the four-year-old went unnoticed.

"The girl was found totally immobile, in fact, on the floor of the vehicle, behind the front passenger-side seat, under the legs — under the skirt — of one of the women who were killed, around a large travel bag, totally invisible and silent, which explains why no one saw her before," Maillaud said.

One explanation investigators offered was that the man who discovered the bodies and the rescuers he summoned concentrated their attention on the seven-year-old who had severe injuries.

Maillaud insisted police at the scene had no reason to suspect that another child was present, and that they were trying to keep the crime scene intact to allow forensics and other experts to arrive from Paris.

CRTC warns Tories over internal do-not-call list

Canada's telecom watchdog says the Conservative party has fallen short when it comes to its do-not-call list.

The CRTC's chief compliance and enforcement officer expressed her concern in a letter to Conservative party executive director Dan Hilton.

Andrea Rosen says the CRTC has launched an investigation prompted by a recent complaint about how the party handles internal do-not-call requests.

Requests

- The CRTC has also asked the Conservatives to make sure all scripts used on calls are clear, and that third-party telemarketing firms follow all the same rules.

Political parties are exempt from the national do-not-call list, but they still have to keep an internal list and respect the wishes of people who tell them they don't want to be contacted.

The Conservative party keeps two internal do-not-call lists: One for solicitation purposes and another for outreach or voter identification.

Rosen says keeping two lists has created some confusion, and the CRTC has asked the party to keep a single list and respect the people's wishes to not be called.

Conservative party spokesman Fred Delorey says changes were made once the CRTC raised the issue.

He noted the party has not been fined or faced any sanctions over what he called an "administrative issue."

"Unlike the Liberals who were fined nearly $5,000 by CRTC for placing misleading robocalls, this was simply an administrative issue with our live calling," he said in an email.

The CRTC recently hit the federal Liberal riding association in Guelph with a $4,900 fine for robocalls that broke the rules during last year's election campaign.

The CRTC says a recorded message that went out to voters on April 30, 2011, violated telemarketing rules by failing to state that it came from the Liberal party or MP Frank Valeriote's campaign.

That CRTC fine pertained only to a breach of telemarketing rules and not to any possible violation of the Canada Elections Act.

Israel lets 2 women, 1 child in, rejecting other migrants

African migrants. After a week of being stranded at the border, a group of Eritreans sent to Egypt and arrested

Israel ended a stalemate Thursday with about 20 African migrants stranded along its border with Egypt for more than a week, allowing two women and a child to enter but turning the rest of the group away, officials said.

Some 60,000 Africans have entered Israel from Egypt in recent years, either fleeing persecution or searching for work. Many Israelis are concerned the continued influx is challenging the state's Jewish character, and the government recently adopted tough measures in a bid to stanch the migrant flow.

For the past week, a group of around 20 Eritreans had been living beside a nearly-completed border fence, where the Israeli military was providing them with food and water.

Israel allowed the two women and one child to enter the country, but sent the rest to Egypt, where officials said they were arrested for allegedly crossing a border illegally.

"It is important that everyone understand that Israel is no longer a destination for infiltrators," Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said in a statement. He said Israel was "determined to stop the flood" of migrants.

Rights groups had appealed to Israel's Supreme Court to decide the fate of the group of Eritreans that was stuck at the border, but the agreement to have them return to Egypt was reached before the Court made a decision.

Most of the African migrants entering Israel are from Sudan and Eritrea. Under international law, Israel cannot return people to those two countries because of their poor human rights records.

Israel's hardened policies have drawn criticism from rights groups who say the country is shirking its international responsibilities and sending migrants back to countries where they could face persecution. Thursday's episode was chided as well.

"It's a cynical arrangement that endangers the welfare and security of the migrants," said Ran Cohen of Physicians for Human Rights-Israel, which helps migrants.

In a similar standoff last month, Israel permitted four Eritreans stranded by the border to enter after four days. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

- The border. Israel has been building a barrier along 200 kilometres of its border with Egypt to try to block migrants from entering the country. It has erected detention facilities and launched crackdowns in Tel Aviv's southern neighbourhoods to rid the area of illegal migrants.

Acquitted. Policemen not guilty of killing protestors

A Cairo court on Thursday found four senior policemen not guilty of killing protesters during last year's popular uprising — the latest acquittal of officials charged in connection with the more than 800 deaths during the crackdown.

The four police generals are among some 200 security officers and other former regime officials who have been tried or still face charges in separate cases related to the deaths of protesters during the revolt that toppled longtime president Hosni Mubarak. The ousted leader himself received a life sentence for failing to stop the killings, but the vast majority of police officials have been acquitted or are still on trial.

There have been just two cases in which security officials have been convicted, but in both instances they received suspended sentences or were tried in absentia.

Critics say the acquittals leave unanswered who was to blame for the deaths.

Many Egyptians accuse the authorities of failing to adequately investigate what happened during the early days of the revolt when riot police waged a fierce crackdown in an attempt to quell the anti-Mubarak demonstrations. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fracking blamed for B.C. quakes. Gas extraction caused tremors: Regulator

A spate of small earthquakes in B.C.'s remote northeastern corner were caused by a controversial technique used to extract natural gas from shale rock, says a report by the province's energy regulator.

The B.C. oil and gas commission launched its probe after a "number of anomalous, low-level seismic events" were detected in the Horn River Basin, a gas-rich shale formation that's attracted some of the industry's biggest players.

"The investigation has concluded that the events observed within remote and isolated areas of the Horn River Basin between 2009 and 2011 were caused by fluid injection during hydraulic fracturing in proximity to pre-existing faults," the agency said in a recent report.

In order to break the rock and free the gas trapped inside of it, companies inject a combination of water, sand and chemicals underground at high pressure.

The process known as hydraulic fracturing, or fracking, has drawn concern from environmentalists and landowners for the amount of water the process requires and for potential contamination of groundwater.

Studies have also linked fracking to earthquakes around shale formations in England and Oklahoma.

The 38 events detected by Natural Resources Canada ranged between magnitudes of 2.2 and 3.8 on the Richter scale. A quake of between 4.0 and 4.9 is considered "light" and may cause a noticeable shaking of indoor items and rattling noises.

"In undertaking the investigation, the commission notes that more than 8,000 high-volume hydraulic fracturing completions have been performed in northeast British Columbia with no associated anomalous seismicity," the report said.

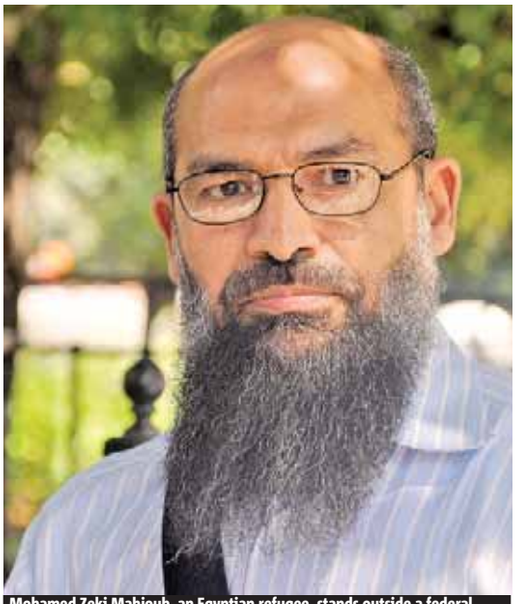
Stockwell Day testifies in security-certificate case



Mohamed Zeki Mahjoub, an Egyptian refugee, stands outside a federal courthouse on Thursday in Toronto. Former public safety minister Stockwell Day was testifying at his national-security certificate hearing, defending his position of trying to deport Mahjoub as a terrorism threat.

Court. Proceeding sheds light on how the federal government decides when they deem someone a terrorist risk

A former federal cabinet minister told an Ontario court Thursday he had been warned there was no way of knowing whether information in a national security certificate used to detain accused terrorist Mohamed Mahjoub was obtained through torture.

Former public safety minister Stockwell Day said he signed the security certificate in February 2008 following "numerous" discussions and inquiry with intelligence and border officials.

Testifying by videolink from Vancouver, Day said the former director of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service gave him a memo stating that it was "difficult, if not impossible" to determine if the information used as evidence was torture-derived because some of it had come from countries with a reputation of employing those practices.

The federal government is trying to deport the Egyptian-born man using a national security certificate — a rarely used immigration tool for deporting non-Canadians considered a risk to the country — claiming he was a high-ranking member of an Islamic terrorist organization with links to Osama bin Laden.

Just Putin it out there: Is this Russian for real?

A bird, a plane or a president? From airborne entrances to polar bear paw shakes, where can Vladimir go from here?

Russian president Vladimir Putin's flight Wednesday in a motorized hang glider purportedly helped young white Siberian cranes learn how to migrate. But it also was the latest in a dozen-year series of telegenic escapades.

Some of Putin's notable stunts:

TOP GUN

Putin and George W. Bush may have had little in common, but they both understood that showing up in a fighter jet makes a dramatic entrance.

Putin did it first, in March 2000, flying into war-torn Chechnya in the rear seat of a Sukhoi-27 advanced fighter jet.

Coming just a few days before Russia's presidential election, the stunt aimed to bolster Putin's image as the man who could wipe out the Chechen separatists, in contrast to predecessor Boris Yeltsin, who had allowed Chechnya to become virtually independent and gruesomely lawless.

SEABED FIND

The low point of Putin's stunts may have been his 2011 scuba dive in the strait connecting the Black and Azov seas. He came up from the dive holding fragments of what were said to be 6th century B.C. Greek jugs, saying "the boys and I found them."

Critics snorted. The seabed was only a few meters deep and the likelihood that the fragments had hidden in plain sight for more than 2,500 years seemed slim. Some joked that Putin's staff had bought the pottery at IKEA.

A few months later, Putin spokesman Dmitry Peskov admitted the jug fragments had been planted.

Putin has become both notorious and beloved for his adventures.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE SWIMMER

Whatever sleight of hand or outright fakery may be involved in a Putin media moment, he obviously does a lot of the work himself.

That was never more clear than in a 2009 photo of Putin swimming in a Siberian river. He chose to do the butterfly, swimming's most visually dramatic stroke. Photographers caught his head and torso surging out of the water, his well-muscled arms extended and a look on his face that seemed to express both the joys of exertion and the coldness of the water.

BEARDS AND BIKES

Putin has described himself as being something of a hooligan as a youth and even at the pinnacle of power likes to show a raffish side. He's made several visits to motorcycle rallies, consorting with brawny and bearded leather-clad bikers.

It doesn't seem to undermine his street cred when he rides with the posse on a three-wheeler instead of true hog.

AN OLD SOFTIE

Putin appears to have a genuine affection for animals, even being shown cuddling a puppy and getting a kiss from a poodle.

He managed to combine sweetness and toughness in a 2010 trip to the Arctic where he accompanied scientists tracking polar bears. Kneeling next to a tranquilized bear, he stroked the animal, helped measure it and roll it onto its side. On his departure, he shook the bear's paw and uttered: "Be well."

FLY WITH ME

Like some of his other stunts, Wednesday's flights on a flimsy hang glider in Siberia aimed to portray Putin as being concerned about ecological issues.

Critics were unconvinced.

"He's been ruling this country for 12 years, but a list of his fantasies never ends," wrote Anton Orekh, a commentator for Ekho Moskvy radio. "This makes me think that he's made all of his dreams come true and is now merely struggling with boredom.''

But Putin did sidestep a possible photo debacle. Initial reports said he would likely don a fake beak so the storks being trained would think he was one of them.

Huh? No chance.

Quite a show

A man of many moments

Start with manly ventures — flying, hunting, scuba-diving. Add an element of danger — polar bears, tigers, fighter jets. Throw in a bare chest here and there.

In Russian politics, Vladimir Putin is both the star of the show and the stuntman.

The media events portray him as both exceptionally bold and just a regular guy who enjoys proletarian pastimes like hunting and fishing.

Although critics say Putin is tremendously wealthy, his stunts are careful to avoid any suggestion of riches. Putin — unlike John Kerry — will never be filmed going windsurfing.

Putin is even willing to show he has a vulnerable side. He confessed that the hang glider's veering and yawing "gets the adrenaline going" and once was filmed being thrown to the mat by a 10-year-old Japanese girl who was a judo expert.

Coast guards search for survivors Thursday after a fishing boat carrying people who had been promised refuge in Europe sank after hitting rocks off the coast near the Aegean city of Izmir, Turkey. HURRIYET/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Smugglers' boat sinks, children among 58 dead

Off the Turkish coast. Survivors said some people were trapped below the deck of the submerged vessel

Some 58 people drowned when a fishing boat carrying migrants that smugglers had promised refuge in Europe sank after hitting rocks off the coast of western Turkey, officials said Thursday.

Nine children were among the dead, according to Dogan News Agency. Several dozen survivors, mostly from Iraq and Syria, were able to swim through the Aegean waters to shore, only 50 metres away.

Divers launched an operation to try to find people believed trapped below the deck of the submerged vessel. Television footage showed several rescue vessels near the outline of the submerged boat, which lay just below the surface of the water.

Ambulances waited at the top of a cliff, but there were no indications that anyone else had survived.

The group of migrants had previously made their way to hotels in the city of Izmir, where smugglers agreed to take them to Britain.

Authorities arrested two Turkish suspects in the smuggling operation, TRT television reported.

TRT earlier quoted Tahsin Kurtbeyoglu, a local administrator, as saying 20 bodies were recovered, but the toll rose through the day as more bodies were pulled from the boat. Those who survived had been on the deck, rather than below with other members of their group.

It was not immediately clear when the boat sank, but many such vessels carrying migrants make the journey at night to avoid detection by authorities.

Turkey is hosting 80,000 Syrians who have fled the civil war in their country, and some countries are concerned that large numbers of Syrians could try to reach Europe illegally.

11 workers arrested for fireworks factory blaze

India. Police looking for factory's owner, a noted local politician who fled Sivakasi town after the fire that left 40 employees dead

State police in southern India arrested 11 employees of a an illegal fireworks factory on Thursday, a day after a massive blaze at the facility killed 40 workers and injured 60 others.

The arrests came as grieving relatives cremated the charred bodies of their loved ones, who died Wednesday when the fire blew up large amounts of firecrackers and raw materials stored at the factory.

On Thursday, police arrested 11 employees of the Om Siva Shakti factory on charges of culpable homicide and storing explosives illegally, said police spokesman Najmal Hoda.

People run for cover Wednesday as an explosion and fire destroyed an Indian fireworks factory. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Soundarajan, a local man who uses one name, said his 19-year-old son who died in the blaze was a part-time worker at the factory, which needed extra workers to meet the demand for firecrackers ahead of the coming Hindu festival season.

"My son left in the morning, and a few hours later we heard the loud sound of the blast, which even shook our house nearby," Soundarajan said. "Only later I came to know that my son had lost his life."

Hoda said the factory was operating illegally after authorities suspended its license for major safety violations. The factory's owner, Murugesan, is a local leader of the governing regional party.

State authorities have ordered an investigation into the cause of the fire.

Sivakasi town in Tamil Nadu state is India's biggest hub for the manufacture of firecrackers.

Philippines police charge N.B. woman with murder in husband's death

Beach-resort killing. Investigators believe wife helped hire men to shoot Harry Doyle

Police in the Philippines have charged a New Brunswick man's wife with murder after the 62-year-old was shot dead in the southeast Asian country last month.

Martin Gamba, a spokesman for the police force, says Jane Doyle and three men in the Philippines have been charged with murder in the fatal shooting of Harry Doyle of Fredericton at a beach resort in Surigao City on Aug. 12.

"We are going to request the Canadian government to have his wife extradited back to the Philippines," Gamba said Thursday.

However, he said prosecutors still need to secure arrest warrants before they can make that request — a process he said could take 30 to 45 days.

Gamba said investigators believe the wife and Doyle's driver hired two men to kill Doyle.

Doyle could not be reached for comment and her lawyer did not return a message.

But in an interview in Thursday's edition of the Fredericton Daily Gleaner, Doyle said she feels she is being "dragged down" and wants to tell her side of the story in the presence of her lawyer.

Gamba said police in the Philippines are monitoring the three suspects in that country to make sure they don't leave.

Fredericton police Const. Danielle Carmichael said no one has contacted the department about an extradition request for Doyle.

Carmichael also said police have no authority to monitor her in the meantime.

Drunk driving added to Red Bull heir's charges

Thai police said Thursday they would add drunken driving to the charges against a Red Bull energy drink heir accused of killing a police officer while speeding in his Ferrari and fleeing the scene.

Tests taken in the hours after Monday's crash showed 27-year-old Vorayuth Yoovidhya's blood-alcohol content was 0.063 per cent, exceeding the legal limit of 0.05, said Police Lt. Col. Wiradon Tubtimdee.

Vorayuth was summoned to hear the new charge of drunken driving, which could result in a stiffer penalty if he is convicted. Police charged him already with causing death by reckless driving and escaping an arrest.

Vorayuth's lawyer has said his client was not drinking before the accident. "I understand that after the crash and his surrender, Boss drank that night to relieve his tenseness ... but he did not drink before the incident happened," family lawyer Samak Chaowapanant told the Bangkok Post, referring to Vorayuth by a nickname.

Police said Vorayuth admitted he was driving the Ferrari that struck the officer's motorcycle but said the officer swerved in front of his vehicle.

Second Canadian recession still possible: Moody's

Debt. Study finds that consumer spending may drop as debt-to-income ratio at record high

There is more than a 20 per cent risk of Canada falling into a second recession — and though much of that risk comes from outside our borders, Canadians' sky high debt loads could push the economy over the edge, warns a new report from Moody's Analytics.

With debt-to-income ratios at an all-time high around 150 per cent, Canadians have stretched themselves to the limit since the recession and have left little head room to buffer against another economic downturn, Moody's suggests in the report released Thursday.

"With the economy now relying heavily on the continued expansion of household spending, any retrenchment in the consumer sector will likely place the economy on the brink of a second recession," the report's authors say.

Causes

- Debt. Due to record debts accrued over the first recession, domestic spending is unlikely to support the economy.
- Jobs. Income from exports with trade partners are not materializing, leading to weaker jobs.
- Income. Income growth has slowed while interest rates are expected to rise.

The study — "Storm Clouds Gather Around Canadian Consumer Credit" — says while Canada has managed to outperform other G7 countries since the recession it has been propped up by consumer spending, while exports continue to lag.

Statistics Canada reported last week that the economy grew at an annual rate of 1.8 per cent in the second quarter.

And there is potential for exports to further weaken, given the very real possibility that Europe's debt crisis could deepen and spill over to other countries, and the fiscal crisis that Canada's largest trading partner, the U.S., is also facing.

"The situation that Canada faces is much riskier than in 2007-2008 when the first global financial crisis occurred," said Mark Hopkins, a senior economist at Moody's Analytics and one of the authors of the report.

With Canadians so deep in debt, it would be extremely difficult for domestic spending to pick up slack if things started to go downhill.

Amazon redoubles efforts to fight Apple with new Kindle Fire

Amazon CEO Jeff Bezos unveils new Kindle reading devices at a press conference on Thursday in Santa Monica, Calif. Amazon is updating its Kindle Fire tablet computer, as it steps up competition with Apple's iPad, and refreshing its whole line of Kindle gadgets. The basic model will cost $159 US, down from $199 for the old model. It will start shipping Sept. 14, though there are no immediate plans for a Canadian launch. It's also coming with high-end versions, including ones with a screen nearly as big as the iPad. Amazon also refreshed its line of stand-alone e-readers. Mortgage. TD Bank says new rules may cool housing market

TD Bank says tighter mortgage rules should do the job of cooling Canada's hot housing market in the short term, but higher interest rates will be needed to return the market to saner levels.

The bank's chief economist Craig Alexander estimates the new rules, which went into effect July 9, will shave five percentage points off sales activity and cut prices by three per cent on average during the second half of this year and early 2013.

In the next three years, he expects the combination of the tighter rules and anticipated modest increases in interest rates will result in a 10 per cent price correction on homes.

While it is early, there are already tentative signs that the new rules have tempered sales, if not prices, especially in the country's hottest markets — Toronto and Vancouver.

Housing sales

TD Bank's chief economist estimates that the rules could take five per cent off sales activity and cut prices by three per cent.

In July, Finance Minister Jim Flaherty reduced the amortization rate on new insured mortgages to 25 years from 30, bringing the maximum period for paying off a home back to the historic level. It was the fourth time Flaherty had tightened mortgage rules in as many years.

Alexander says the latest moves, which hike mortgage costs by $140 a month on the average priced home, may be even more effective than the previous efforts in slowing the market.

But if the experience of the previous three moves are any guide, the slowdown will be temporary, lasting just a few quarters.

Canadians saving, but not enough

Survey results. Nearly half of Canadians live paycheque to paycheque

A new survey suggests fewer Canadians are living from paycheque to paycheque, and more are putting money aside for a rainy day or retirement.

But there are still a large number that would face difficulties after one week of not receiving their cheques, and savings rates remain low, the results show.

The survey by the Canadian Payroll Association found 47 per cent saying they would be in financial dire straits if their pay was delayed just one week.

That is a worrying number, said the group, but significantly lower than the 57 per cent that reported such a thin margin of financial security last year.

Also, 66 per cent of the 3,500 employees from across Canada that participated in the survey said they are trying to save more, up from 40 per cent in last year's results.

CPA chairman Caroline Bernard said this year's results are encouraging, but Canadians still face financial challenges.

"Only 13 per cent have saved half or more of their retirement funds goal," she said.

In fact, the survey shows Canadians realize that in these difficult economic times and low rates of return, they will have to sock away more money than in the past for retirement.

Only 34 per cent of Canadians now believe that savings of between $500,000 and $1 million will support a comfortable retirement, while 38 per cent believe between $1 and $3 million will be required.

Although more Canadians say they are saving, they are not saving enough. Almost half said they are putting away five per cent or less of their pay, about half what financial planners recommend. THE CANADIAN PRESS

1 I am woman, hear me roar, in French. Note to newly elected Quebec premier Pauline Marois: First, please know that there is no adequate French term for "Smoked meat" or "Bagels." Second, if you achieve your goal of separation, whose picture goes on the money? Celine Dion? Guy Lafleur? Give it some thought.

2 Spare the rod. The Canadian Medical Association Journal says it's time to repeal Criminal Code Section 43, which allows parents to physically discipline their children. Apparently, several bills to ban corporal punishment have failed in the House of Commons as recently as 2008. If this is true, where are these parents when these kids are kicking my seat on the plane?

3 Growing up Disney. Selena Gomez sheds her wholesome image in the new film Spring Breakers. The movie apparently features scantily clad girls doing drugs, which Gomez admits may be "shocking" to her fans. Now, Selena is adorable, but I'd consider it "shocking" to see her in a movie I actually wanted to watch.

4 Monkey business. Wildlife trading on the web has now reached dangerous proportions. As a result, more than 7,500 species of animals are at risk of extinction. Sites like eBay are being asked to implement stricter regulations, but I'm more interested in the delivery. I can barely find an Xpresspost box to send my mom a coat, but people are shipping rhinoceros? That's gotta be a lot of stamps.

5 Day job. Former football star Michael Strahan fulfilled his 2008 prophecy by becoming Kelly Ripa's new co-host. After winning the Super Bowl, Regis Philbin asked what he wanted to do next. Strahan replied: "Your job looks pretty good." I've used that line at every job interview, and it has never worked.

6 Get Smart-phone. Millions of Apple device IDs, which track user activity, were uncovered by hackers on an FBI agent's laptop. The news sparked tremendous public outcry regarding what Americans claim is a breach of privacy. Government officials across the country were surprised to hear that the term "privacy" was still in use.

7 TIFF is back with a vengeance. A little Shakespeare here, some Tolstoy there, and a Spike Lee documentary about Michael Jackson. I've got my eyes on Jack Kerouac's On the Road starring the princess of pout, Kristen Stewart. Mostly because I was never intoxicated enough to finish the book, but also because Stewart might be one relationship question away from an epic hissy fit that could make YouTube history, and it would be nice to see it happen in Canada.

8 CIFF, not TIFF. There's a buzz surrounding a film that will be unveiled at the Calgary International Film Festival. Mr. Viral is a dark comedy thriller about viral marketing that's been described as Mad Men meets Fight Club. In a novel attempt to raise money, producers offered subliminal photo placement to small online investors, so don't be surprised if you leave the theatre with the mysterious urge to call your ex-girlfriend.

A film about the beauty of language should be better written than The Words. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Story falls flat in film about storytelling

The Words. Flimsy characters, an ending filled with ennui and a pretentious premise make this movie about a novelist one to miss

Richard: Mark, words fail me. Or should I say, The Words failed me. A movie about the beauty of language should be better written than this. Let's put aside the bizarre story-within-a-story-within-a-movie structure for a second and focus on the words themselves. We are supposed to believe the Dennis Quaid character is a master wordsmith, but when he reads from his book it's as if he's reciting a police report. "And on a Friday afternoon, they were married at City Hall. They honeymooned in Paris." Where's the art in that?

Mark: Well, Richard, maybe the Quaid character is a Hemingway acolyte. And there are numerous references to him in the film. But what the movie is about is the power of storytelling. So how about this? Just tell the story! What is the purpose of the Quaid framing device except to show off Olivia Wilde's doe eyed frozen smirk?

RC: Perhaps it was seen as another opportunity for different characters to mouth platitudes. The blurred line between real life and fiction could have been an interesting plot device, but instead is just pretentious and dull. Are we supposed to take any of this seriously when the deepest any character gets is to tell us that great artists must choose between life and fiction? "They're very close, but they're two different things." Thanks for clearing that up.

MB: The movie actually sucked me in for the first half. Then it just sucked. I liked Jeremy Irons but I found that everyone's motivations were completely phony. And doesn't Bradley Cooper know that Paul Dano has the franchise rights to playing struggling novelists this year? And for a movie that's all about the gift of narrative, could someone have written an ending?

RC: I hate to just pile up on this movie, but it doesn't leave me with many options. Irons has something going until he says, "Wait, this is when it gets interesting." If only he were right. It's all just so earnest and poorly told, as if it is a lesson in how NOT to describe a writer's life. The abrupt ending didn't bother me that much. I was just glad it was over.

MB: I thought the movie was setting us up for a blackmail thriller, which would have been obvious, but nothing could have been as bad as the bloodless, whimpering ennui of the last third of this film.

Synopsis

Dennis Quaid plays Clay Hammond, a bestselling author reading from his book The Words. He spins the tale of Rory (Bradley Cooper), a struggling writer who publishes a manuscript he found tucked inside an antique briefcase. Taking credit for the words, he is forced to face his bad deed when the author of the book, an old man who lost the manuscript 50 years before, enters his life.

Milla Jovovich likes hotel shampoo, and her job as queen zombie killer

Resident Evil franchise. Star of series talks about fifth film and the possibility of a female version of the Expendables

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Milla Jovovich is on her fifth installment of the Resident Evil franchise, and she's not about to slow down. HANDOUT

When I first see Milla Jovovich, she's carrying a handful of hotel toiletries to her bag, explaining that she's taking them home with her. "I have guest rooms, and I think it's super-chic to put them out, and then when people are finished with them, either they buy their own or they know it's time to leave," she explains. "I can obviously afford to buy shampoo, but it's a principle thing, right?" Jovovich certainly can afford any toiletries she wants, since her zombie-fighting film series is up to its fifth installment, Resident Evil: Retribution, and it shows no sign of slowing down.

When you get to the fifth film in a franchise, how do you keep track of the story?

I'm married to the writer-director. That helps. Because literally, I think up until last year I totally thought Alice was the bad guy. And Paul [W.S. Anderson] was like, "No, but don't you remember in No. 1, the whole flashback sequence?" And I was like, "Are you sure?" And he's like, "I wrote the script. I think I'm sure." But pretty much there is no script. Michelle [Rodriguez] and I like to say that Paul just has a video camera and presses record. So it's pretty much like reality TV.

There's talk of an all-female version of the Expendables.

We're the ones that set it up. Paul and I have an idea for a female Expendables project, but Expendables is a very conceptual film, so how do you translate that into a female genre without being derivative? There's not that many girls that you would associate with that, do you know what I mean? There are many more guys that are known as action stars than women, so how would you make a female Expendables in that way? It's tough, but we have a really interesting idea that I won't tell you about right now, but it's really cool and it would be sort of like a female Expendables. It would be strong women taking vengeance.

Milla's Twitter rule

- Devote the time. "If I'm going to tweet, I need to tweet and be able to have an hour to tweet. I can't just tweet one thing and then disappear. It's a Russian thing. I'm a guilt-ridden human being, I live in guilt. Always. If I'm going to tweet, I want to chat, I want to have quality time. I could not tweet for a month, which I think is OK, but when I do tweet, I give them a good hour of my time. I don't want to be halfway there."

"SLY AND DELIGHTFUL, DELICIOUSLY UNEXPECTED ...Frank Langella is impeccable."

Ira Sachs GETTY IMAGES

When personal experience becomes the stuff of movies

Autobiographical.
Ira Sachs takes a 10-year relationship between two men and turns it into an award-winning film

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Filmmaker Ira Sachs bares all with his latest, Keep the Lights On, an unflinchingly autobiographical look at a decade-long relationship between two men (Thure Lindhardt and Zachary Booth) wrestling with love, compulsion and addiction in New York City.

Of course, it's not a documentary so there are some differences and fictionalizations. For starters, Sachs clearly is Danish, as the main character in the film is.

What is the attraction in drawing so directly from your own life for your films?
I kind of feel like it's all we have as artists. I mean, we have craft and we have skills and we have taste, but what we really have to offer — or what I feel I have to offer — is the things I know intimately. And I have always relied on my own experience as the base of my work.

What I generally feel is that a story becomes visible to me as a filmmaker when I have a great depth of knowledge about the story and also a certain kind of distance, which makes it possible for me to be clearheaded as a storyteller.

And you felt enough time had gone by since this relationship?
Yeah, I mean I ended a relationship in 2008, and I was aware soon after that 10 years before there had been a first day of this relationship and then somehow in between the two was a really good story.

What made you want to cast Lindhardt, a Danish actor, as your onscreen counterpart?
He was described to me as "the bravest actor in Denmark."

The material in the film, it's very open and very sexual and very naked in a lot of ways, both physically and emotionally. I had a sense that I might not be able to cast it in America.

For example, I sent the script to an agent in Hollywood who I've often sent scripts to before, and the response I got back was, "No one in our agency will be available."

The depictions of sex in the film are very frank and natural.
One of the things I liked about [cinematographer] Thimios Bakatakis' work is that sex scenes are not different scenes than a Christmas dinner or someone at work in an office.

They're just other things that people do together.

And you kind of feel that in the film, that there isn't this kind of misty haze that covers the screen when people start to have sex.

In the film, the main character wins the Teddy award at the Berlin Film Festival, which this film itself went on to win. Is that an example of a successful subliminal message?
I hope that wasn't the reason [we won the Teddy], but I'm certainly glad we won. I won the Grand Jury prize at the Sundance Film Festival, and I thought that would be just too dead-on and too much about me.

I had to think of a comparable [award], and that seemed in the scale. I didn't think it seemed fair for these characters to win the Palme d'Or at Cannes. It was fun to imitate the actor who was imitating a character based on me winning a prize at a film festival — which I felt like I was doing. When I won the prize at Berlin I felt like I was playing Thure winning the prize.

Don't miss it...engrossing, intelligent storytelling at its very best.
The ensemble cast is superb." -Pete Hammond, BOXOFFICE MAGAZINE

Roger Ebert has been coming to TIFF since its inception. GETTY IMAGES

You won't get a must-see TIFF list out of Roger Ebert

A critic's take. World's most famous cinephile shares his memories of Toronto's fest, but won't play the 'best picks' game

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca

Roger Ebert, the Chicago–based world's most famous film critic, has spent a considerable amount of time in Toronto.

"I've spent six months there," he wrote in a recent email exchange, "one festival at a time."

The festival that brings him to Hogtown is the Toronto International Film Festival, which kicked off its 37th year today.

In his review of Melancholia he waxed rhapsodic about the importance of TIFF.

"Toronto announces the end of a summer of often disappointing and overinflated 'blockbusters,' and an autumn that feels like a springtime of the cinema." He wrote from experience. The Pulitzer Prize winner has been attending TIFF since its inception.

In fact, he's so familiar with TIFF he even has a nickname for the vertigo-inducing staircase at one of their premier theatres.

The "escalator of terror" he calls it.

Length of escalators aside, he is succinct when I ask about the changes he's noticed over the years.

TIFF book signing

Roger Ebert will be in Toronto for the festival and he'll also be doing a couple of book signings for the paperback edition of his memoir, LIFE ITSELF, which comes out Sept 4. Monday, September 10 at 7 p.m. at TIFF Shop at the TIFF Bell Lightbox, Reitman Square, 350 King Street W. Wednesday, September 12 at 4 p.m. at Theatre Books, 101 Spadina Ave.

"It's grown bigger and better," he wrote.

As for any improvements he'd like to see made? "Most of the changes I've wished for have, in fact, been made."

He's more forthcoming when I ask how he would explain the importance of film festivals to someone who has never attended one.

"It's a way to expose yourself to the best of new world filmmaking, three to four films a day, and (equally valuable) join in the conversations before and after them and while in line. You just can't get up to speed with a couple of multiplex pictures a month."

As for advice to a TIFF newbie?

"Avoid the movies that will be opening between now and Christmas, and seek out those that sound intriguing."

He's had many intriguing festival moments over the years, so I asked him to describe his most vivid TIFF memory.

"I've never heard a more ecstatic audience reaction than at the premiere for Jason Rietman's Juno," he wrote. "That's not to say it was the best film I've ever seen at Toronto, although I loved it — but that I have an audience reaction to judge other reactions against."

There are 372 features at this year's festival, so it seemed obvious to inquire about what he was most excited to see and why.

"Oh, no. I won't play," he scolded. "I never, ever make lists, and especially of films I haven't seen."

Looper is like a magic trick, says Bruce Willis

Festival kickoff. Time-travel film pits Willis against his supposed younger self — Joseph Gordon-Levitt

Action star Bruce Willis compares his new time-travel flick Looper — which kicks off this year's Toronto International Film Festival — to a magic trick.

Willis and co-star Joseph Gordon-Levitt portray the same character in the movie, about hitmen who kill thugs sent back in time.

Gordon-Levitt's character is tasked with offing the future version of himself (played by Willis) — but panics when the moment comes.

To convincingly play a younger version of Willis, Gordon-Levitt donned heavy layers of special-effects makeup.

He also studied Willis's past films and listened to hours of tape to learn how to mimic the Die Hard actor's voice.

At a festival news conference, Willis gave Gordon-Levitt's performance and impersonation skills a thumbs up, and applauded director Rian Johnson's vision of a futuristic world.

"Sci-fi films are like magic tricks," Willis told reporters. "At some point you have to let go of it and just believe you're in the story.

"I was so surprised the magic trick we were trying to do works."

He also praised Johnson for conjuring up a futuristic world yet still creating believable relationships between characters.

"There are reminders the whole way that we're in a different time situation but it's a real emotional film," he said.

The stars of Looper walked the red carpet Thursday night and the film is due to open in theatres Sept. 28.

Join Metro's Ned Ehrbar for TIFF chats

Metro gives you an inside look at some of the films vying for attention at the 2012 Toronto International Film Festival with our series of TIFF Chats. In each installment, Metro's Ned Ehrbar, right, sits down with another film critic to let you know what to see and what to skip.
First up, Ned and New York Magazine's Kyle Buchanan discuss the TIFF opening night film Looper, starring Joseph Gordon-Levitt, Bruce Willis and Emily Blunt, plus The Perks of Being a Wallflower, Rust and Bone and The Paperboy.
Head to metronews.ca/tiff to check it out — and to catch other videos from Metro throughout the festival. We'll have exclusives with stars like Emily Blunt and Keira Knightley, updates on parties and more, so stay tuned. METRO

RED CARPET READY SKIN

PUT YOUR BEST FACE FORWARD

Flawless, great-looking skin doesn't just exist in the realm of make-believe. Follow the tips below to make your beauty fantasies come true:

1 If you have an event coming up where you want your skin to stand out, give yourself as much ready time as possible. Since it's that time of year, think of it like going back to school. You can cram the night before for a big exam, but the best results come from ample preparation. Lay the groundwork at least a month before if possible, as ...

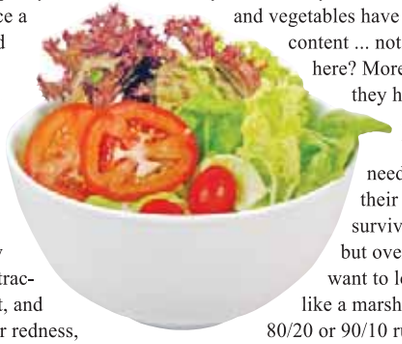
2 Great skin starts with a great foundation. And we aren't talking the stuff you put on to cover up your skin. You wouldn't just spackle over a house that's falling down, right? So treat your skin the same way — build it up from the inside out.

3 Wash your face every night. No excuses. Seriously. Not doing so is gross. Whether you wear makeup or not, male or female, you need to wash your face before it hits the pillow. During the day your face is exposed to the elements, pollution and free radicals. At night is the optimal time for the body to restore and repair itself, so help it along by cleansing and moisturizing with products geared towards your skin type and needs.

4 Hydrate. Start upping your water intake. Not juice, not soda, just plain, simple, unadorned H2O. When you don't ingest enough water, it shows through your skin. The tissues and organs in your body require water to function properly. The skin is the biggest organ system and is also the biggest reservoir of water. You take in more water through the pores of your skin than you do through your mouth. However, if you don't get enough through consumption, you will notice the effects through your skin as the body will draw on those reserves for proper internal functionality. What this means is you may look and feel haggard, so start sipping water throughout the day.

5 Exfoliate. Whether you loofah, scrub or use a product with an acid, regularly sloughing off dead skin cells exposes new cells underneath and causes cells to turn over at the same time, which is why skin feels soft and smooth after exfoliating. Depending on your skin type, once or twice a week is sufficient. And please be gentle folks. Remember, you aren't Lady Macbeth.

6 A week before the big day, get or do an at-home facial. This way, if you are trying out new products or getting extractions from the facialist, and there's any irritation or redness, your skin will get a chance to calm down. For dry skin, try a clay-based masque to absorb excess oil, and for normal to oily skin, a hydrating mask may give your skin a nice glow.



7 Eat right. Increase your intake of vegetables, fruits and whole grains. This, along with exercise, will dramatically affect how you look and feel. Fruits and vegetables have a high water content ... notice a theme here? More to the point, they have vital nutrients that your body and brain need to function at their best. You can survive on junk food, but over time, do you want to look and feel like a marshmallow? Try the 80/20 or 90/10 rule. Eat right 80 to 90 per cent of the time, so that you can afford a little treat now and then.

8 Break a sweat. Yeah, we went there. Regular exercise helps you internally work better and externally look better. Don't think, just get up and go.

9 Sleep. Make sure you get enough. Nuff said.

10 Sunscreen. Protect your skin, everyday. If you want to resemble a dried up old apple before it's time, then by all means ignore all the data. Otherwise, wear and reapply an SPF 30 or higher sunscreen daily.

In short, there are no short cuts. Over time, and this is key, if you aren't doing all the things you can to help your body inside and out, you probably won't look and feel as good as you possibly can.

Everything you do affects everything you do.

So take care of what you have. Your body and face will thank you and your skin will always be red carpet ready.

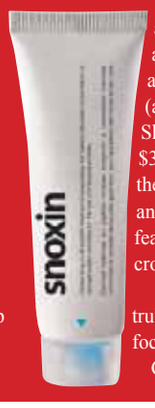
SIZE DOES MATTER

Yes, it's true. For red carpet worthy special occasions, it's best to really play up one feature so that you and it stand out.

FOR BIG, SMOKEY PEEPERS: To make your eyes pop, think like an artist. Eye liner: Dot/stipple dark eyeliner as close to the lash line as possible, or rim the lower inside rim for that Cleopatra-come-hither look. Eye shadow: Try tone on tone or apply contrasting eye shadow colours. Go darker around the lid (both top and bottom), mid-tone in the crease and light by your brow bone. And blend, blend, blend with either an eye shadow brush or cotton swab. Mascara: Apply two coats. Insider tip: For no clumps, wipe the mascara wand with a tissue before each application. And for those with sparse lashes, try peptalash for longer, thicker, fuller lashes. It's the first ever combination of three clinically proven peptides that give you lashes that appear longer, thicker, and fuller in as little as two weeks. Available exclusively at Shoppers Drug Mart for $24.99.

LIPS: If lips are the focal point, try a strong, bold lip colour. A classic red is très glamourous. Whether you choose a lipstick, stain or gloss, the texture and shade is up to you, but make sure to keep your eye and cheek colours toned down.

INSIDER TIP: A great face starts with a clean canvas. Daily application of an anti-aging serum like snoxin (available exclusively at Shoppers Drug Mart for $39.99) will help minimize the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles, so your best features stand out, not your crow's feet.



Be memorable, and for truly outstanding features, focus on one element only. Go big or go home.

MAKING A GRAND ENTRANCE

FASHION FOCAL POINTS THAT WILL TURN HEADS

DIGITAL VISION/THINKSTOCK

Need that red carpet look without the pain or the price tag?

From hair to nails, from toes to décolletage, from brows to hemlines, there are dozens of fashion focal points to be considered before settling on what style your grand entrance will take.

Let's begin at the top:

Relax a little. Your hair shouldn't look or feel pinched, pulled and severe. Think up-do then up-don't it. We are after long, flowing locks. Half-back hair, in which one side is pulled back while the other draped in front, is hot and it's showing up on everyone from Sofia Vergara to Miley Cyrus.

To get the look create a deep, side part while blow-drying. Hold your tresses back with a bobby pin if your hair is too short to do so on its own.

Red lips will heat up runways and red carpets this fall so find your shade of crimson and pucker up. Red lips look best when the rest of your makeup is low-key. Finding the right shade, though, can be tricky. According to ellecanada.com, blondes should wear yellow-based reds while brunettes need to sport blue-based tones.

Be sure to bronze, warns TV fashionista Kelly Osbourne, a regular host on E!'s Fashion Police.

Consider a spray tan for that sun-kissed glow. You will feel slimmer, she says, and more alive.

The need to accessorize your frock is all-important so look to chandelier earrings, hair jewelry such as barrettes and tiaras, and simple necklaces.

Look for wide-legs pants to make a return this fall. Think '70s palazzo pant. The beauty of this style, says peoplestylewatch.com, is that the cut is flattering on all body shapes.

If dresses are more you, try the more structured, sculptural style, which incorporates geometric prints, graphic detailing and defined shoulders.

Regardless of what you wear or how slim you might be, wear body-shaping undergarments under your outfit. Nobody wants to see your belly button, says Osbourne.

To finish off your look, consider shoes with fun and unexpected decorations. Long gone are the days of matchy-poo satin pumps. And don't ruin your glamorous evening with shoes that cripple. Osbourne suggests you pop a pair of ballet flats in your bag to rescue your arches from collapse.

Etheridge, on 12th album, emerges from heartbreak

New music. 4th Street Feeling looks back on her parents, childhood and breakups in an album that takes you on a journey

Grammy-Award-winning singer-songwriter Melissa Etheridge GETTY IMAGES

At 51, Melissa Etheridge isn't coasting on her accomplishments. Take her guitar work.

The Grammy-Award-winning singer-songwriter, whose 12th studio album has been released this week, challenged herself to play all the guitar parts this time around for the first time.

"I kind of thought when I was 30 that you're as good as you're going to get. And that's not true," she says. "I have gotten so much better and I'm celebrating it on this album."

The album, 4th Street Feeling, has a dozen songs that mostly look backward — to her parents, childhood and breakups. It's named after a street in Etheridge's hometown of Leavenworth, Kan.

"I'm exploring being 51. I'm exploring the maturity, the wisdom that just comes from having gone around the sun 50 times," she says. "My experience is, 'Oh, I'm never really going to get it right. I'm never going to get it done.' But that's not the point here. The point is the journey."

Listeners will get some nostalgia — Etheridge sings about 8-tracks and the Oldsmobile Delta 88 — as well as new stuff.

She tries out a banjitar — an instrument with a banjo body and a guitar neck — on the first single, Falling Up.

"The whole album is new compositions with those old shoes," she says.

Messy split

Etheridge, best known for her songs Come to My Window and I'm the Only One, has also included a few not-so-veiled references to Tammy Lynn Michaels, with whom she's endured a messy split.

- Quote. "Say goodbye to the enemy," Etheridge sings in A Disaster. On another, Be Real, she asks, "You sold your soul for fame, fame, fame." And her tune Sympathy begins with the powerful line, "There's a liar in your bed."
- Quote. "I am a songwriter. I do get to put my personal experiences in song," she says. "Is that my ultimate revenge? I don't know."

Kill me maybe. Carly Rae Jepsen's tune Billboard's song of the summer

There's no maybe about it: Carly Rae Jepsen's Call Me Maybe is the song of the summer.

Billboard says the 26-year-old Canadian's infectious pop song about infatuation love topped its Songs of Summer chart. The list annually ranks the overall performance of hit songs on the Billboard Hot 100 between Memorial Day and Labor Day.

Landing at No. 2 was Maroon 5's Payphone, featuring Wiz Khalifa. Gotye's Somebody That I Used to Know, featuring Kimbra, Katy Perry's Wide Awake and Ellie Goulding's Lights round out the top five.

Call Me Maybe has already netted Jepsen a Teen Choice Award, and the video is up for the best new artist moonman trophy at Thursday night's MTV Video Music Awards. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hit album that almost wasn't

Canadian content. Sloan celebrates Twice Removed, a beloved record once considered a failure

Now that it's a fixture on lists of the greatest Canadian rock albums of all time, it's easy to forget that Sloan's Twice Removed was once reviled.

Or at least it was by the behemoth of alt-rock record labels, Geffen, when the Halifax quartet delivered the glimmering LP, a thoughtful collection of brightly lit guitar-pop.

Twice Removed was an admitted left-turn from the group's distortion-contorted debut Smeared, and at a time when the modern-rock charts were dominated by sludge-slinging Nirvana imitators, their sophomore album was not what the label wanted to hear. It was clean, back when "clean" was a dirty word.

The album killed the golden goose. It broke up the band. But now they're celebrating it, in the form of a deluxe vinyl reissue and a cross-country tour during which Sloan will play the record in its entirety.

Back when Geffen first rejected it — when they asked the band to re-record the entire thing — the band certainly never imagined they would one day warm to the album.

"Self-doubt is my default setting — but I was the most torn up about it," said bassist and co-frontman Chris Murphy in a recent interview from their cluttered Toronto rehearsal space.

"I probably would have done anything, I was so excited to be on Geffen. ... 'Oh, they're asking us to record the whole thing again? I guess that's what you do. I guess that's what we should do.'

"I'm glad that we didn't."

So are the album's legions of fans.

But they didn't really exist back in 1994. Sure, Sloan did have fans. A couple of years prior, they had inked a deal with Geffen — the home of Nirvana, Beck and Sonic Youth — on the strength of their 1992 Peppermint EP, and followed it with their messy but charming full-length Smeared later that year.

That debut was a moderate chart success in Canada, but was most notable for the seemingly rosy future it forecast. In truth, Smeared was a dissonant pastiche of various indie-rock influences, one which both belied the band's inexperience and hinted at real songwriting skill submerged under the layers of fashionable fuzz.

That album, of course, is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year. But the band didn't really savour the idea of playing Smeared front-to-back every night.

"There'd be a bunch of songs where we'd be like: 'Ugh. Skip that one,'" laughed Murphy. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Influences

- Sloan dug deep into their influences — including the Velvet Underground, Slint, '80s hardcore and, of course, some classic British pop — while penning the songs that would form Twice Removed. There was certainly a degree of defiance as they rejected the direction most of the rock world was taking.
- "We were kind of running from grunge and this sort of house of cards that it seemed to be — all that 'poor man's Nirvana' (stuff)," Chris Murphy said.

New album. Partners in every way, musical duo Matt & Kim produce dance-punk-pop inspired by the hip-hop around them

MICHELLE CASTILLO
Metro World News

Dance-punk duo and independent music darlings Matt & Kim aren't just partners in their music career: They've been dating since even before their band formed in 2005. Since then they've had several milestones, including their song Daylight being used during an episode of HBO's Entourage and being asked to be the supporting act for Blink-182 and My Chemical Romance during the 2011 Honda Civic Tour. Now, the two are putting out their fourth album called Lightning (out Oct. 2) and gearing up for a six-week tour through the United States and Canada. We caught up with Matt and asked him to tell us what helped inspire the album, and what it was like to record and live in the center of hipsterville, Williamsburg in Brooklyn.

Matt & Kim's new album Lightning is out Oct. 2. GETTY IMAGES

What was the big inspiration for this latest album?
We've always made upbeat music, but I think there's sort of the darker edge that Matt & Kim can have, there's slightly more of it on this album. There's still a share of upbeat songs — everything feels upbeat — but in some of the lyrics there's a slightly different edge. I don't know if that's inspiration, but as always we make albums from just what comes out of us when we try to make them, and we were certainly surprised at that for this album.

I know you recorded in Williamsburg, Brooklyn —which has quickly become the hipster capital of America. How do you feel about this new stereotypical view of Williamsburg?
I mean, I see why it can be seen like that and whatnot, and it's true. I've gone to few other places that have such a high concentration of people who are into art and music and things like that in one place. I felt that Williamsburg for a long time has been very inspiring in that sense... being surrounded by other people who are concerned with similar things to myself and whatnot.

Yet, after living there for eight years, we just moved out and moved away. Of course, things as they do in New York evolve and change, and Williamsburg is one of those things.

What's the deal with Perry and Mayer?

It's getting tough for folks to keep up with Katy Perry's romance with John Mayer. Two weeks ago, the pair was supposedly off when Mayer dumped Perry after a couple of months of "casual dating," but that doesn't explain why Perry and Mayer have been spotted together twice in the last week, according to X-17.

First, they hit up a Labour Day weekend music festival in downtown L.A., and then just a few days later they were spotted sneaking out of a restaurant after having dinner together.

People who have recently broken up don't usually spend that much time together.

Amy Poehler and Will Arnett

Comedy's favourite couple calling it quits

Amy Poehler and Will Arnett are splitting up.

Publicist Lewis Kay says the couple is separating after nine years of marriage. The breakup was first reported by Us Weekly.

Poehler and Arnett have two sons, 3-year-old Archie and 2-year-old Abel.

Their personal lives may be in turmoil, but professionally, both are on an upswing. The 40-year-old Poehler became famous as a cast member on Saturday Night Live. She now stars in the NBC sitcom Parks and Recreation and is up for an Emmy for lead actress in a comedy series.

Arnett's breakout role was on Fox's Arrested Development. The 4-year-old Arnett now co-stars with Christina Applegate on the NBC comedy Up All Night.

Pattinson's drinking problem is 'out of control': Source

Friends of Robert Pattinson reportedly want the actor to seek treatment for a drinking problem they say he's had for years and has only gotten worse since revelations of girlfriend Kristen Stewart's infidelity came to light, according to Hollyscoop.

Pattinson "has a huge drinking problem" and his friends and family "think that he needs to go to rehab," a source says.

But apparently his drinking is nothing new, according to the source: "He was drinking every day on the set of Cosmopolis and everyone on the set was aware of this," the source says. "His drinking is out of control. He loves vodka and drinks alone."

Lohan sets record straight about story linking her to Tom Cruise

Somehow, Lindsay Lohan got pulled into a recent Vanity Fair story about the Church of Scientology auditioning actresses to be Tom Cruise's girlfriend before he married Katie Holmes, and Lohan just wants everyone to know she has no idea what the magazine is talking about.

"Lindsay met with Tom before he met Katie," a source tells the Huffington Post.

"At first, she was super-excited to work with Tom and thought it was about a role in Mission Impossible. It soon became clear that he wasn't looking for an actress but something very different."

Looking to clear her name, Lohan was quick to take to Twitter to post, "I just want everyone (and Tom Cruise) to know, that I have/had NO part in the VF story — nor has anyone in my life, personal and work-related."

Bynes charged for hit-and-run ... twice

In news that will likely come as a surprise to no one, actress Amanda Bynes has been charged with two counts of hit-and-run for two separate incidents, according to TMZ.

If convicted, Bynes faces up to a year in prison and a $2,000 fine.

In both incidents — one in April and one in August — Bynes allegedly fled the scene after striking another car with her car.

The actress has long maintained her innocence.

I try not to take things too seriously — especially wine. Knowing my booze beverage of choice can pour pretty pretentious just makes me more than happy to poke fun at its reputation for being a glass for the upper class.

In my slightly twisted mind, wine is the people's drink and should never be put on a pedestal or treated like a liquid of luxury (even if the bottle costs a few hundred bucks).

That's why I appreciate winemakers with a sense of humour. I'm not talking about their juice. It's more about how they brand their output. The Aussies are masters at making classy, yet accessible, wines with amazingly original names.

When it comes to old school fun Mitolo's 2010 Jester Shiraz ($21.95 - $24.99) is more than a thick, textured red from the Mclaren Vale in South Australia. Its name was inspired by jester Richard Tarlton — one of Queen Elizabeth I's favourite comedians.

Dark, deep and layered with licorice, spice and chewy black fruit, it's a perfect late summer barbecue companion for steak or a choice slab of beef.

Serve restaurant taste at your dinner table

Spicy Pork and Polenta. Take the mystery out of cooking this maize, which is a staple in Italian cuisine

Most people consider polenta a restaurant food. That's because as good as this creamy, cheesy Italian staple is, few of us have the hour needed to crank it out.

But hidden on the grocer's shelves is a shortcut that can help get polenta on your dinner table any day of the week in minutes — prepared polenta. This is different — and far better — than a related product known as instant polenta. But first, some polenta basics.

Polenta is a traditional starch in Italian cooking, an alternative to pasta, rice and potatoes that pairs deliciously well with robust sauces and meats. Polenta is made by slowly simmering and stirring cornmeal with chicken broth or water. It usually also is seasoned with Parmesan cheese and butter.

While the dry product called instant polenta promises results in five minutes or less, it tends to be grainy and flavourless. The better choice is tube-style pre-cooked polenta, usually sold in the grocer's natural foods section. This product is ready to slice and toss on the grill, under the broiler or into a skillet to pan-fry.

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients

- 1/2 cup mirin
- 1/4 cup crushed pepper sauce
- 1/4 cup seasoned rice vinegar
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- 1 lb thinly sliced pork cutlets
- 18-oz tube prepared polenta, cut into chunks
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tbsp toasted sesame oil
- 4 oz crumbled feta cheese
- Salt and ground black pepper

1. In stainless steel bowl, stir mirin, crushed pepper sauce, vinegar and soy sauce. Add pork, toss, refrigerate 20 mins.

2. Meanwhile, in saucepan over medium heat, combine polenta and milk. Stir until soft and heated through, 6 to 7 minutes. Cover and set aside.

3. In skillet, heat oil over medium-high. Remove pork from the marinade (reserve marinade) and add to pan. Brown cutlets on each side 4 mins. Add marinade from bowl to skillet and bring to a boil.

4. Stir feta cheese into polenta, then season with salt and pepper. To serve, spoon polenta onto each plate, then top with pork cutlets and sauce from pan. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Perfect pesto touch

Whether you use your own pesto or a store-bought gluten-free version, this is an easy supper that is delicious served alongside pasta or a rice pilaf.

Ingredients

- 4 boneless pork loin chops, about 625 g (1 1/4 lbs)
- 5 ml (1 tsp) dried oregano leaves
- 1 ml (1/4 tsp) freshly ground pepper
- 10 ml (2 tsp) extra-virgin olive oil (divided)
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) gluten-free basil pesto
- 1 onion, thinly sliced
- 1 red bell pepper, thinly sliced
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) chopped fresh oregano
- 150 ml (2/3 cup) sodium-reduced, gluten-free vegetable cocktail
- Pinch salt

1. Sprinkle pork chops with oregano and pepper; set aside.

2. In an ovenproof non-stick skillet, heat 5 ml (1 tsp) of the oil over medium-high heat and brown chops on both sides. Spread pesto over chops and place in a 200 C (400 F) oven for about 10 minutes or until hint of pink remains.

3. Meanwhile, in another non-stick skillet, heat remaining oil over medium heat and cook onion, bell pepper and fresh oregano for about 8 minutes or until starting to brown and soften. Add vegetable cocktail and salt; simmer for about 5 minutes or until absorbed.

This recipe serves four. THE CANADAN PRESS H/O

4. Divide onion mixture among plates and top with pork chops.

Your favourite brew isn't just for sipping on hot days

Beer Can Chicken.
Keep the seasonings simple and use beer to create moisture in this delicious grilled dish

Simple seasoning works best with this chicken dish. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you want to master the art of grilling, you need to accept the idea that more heat isn't necessarily better heat.

In other words, just because your grill is able to crank out 60,000 BTUs doesn't mean you should let it. That's because the key to great grilling actually isn't intense heat, but something far more nuanced called indirect heat.

The beauty of indirect heat is that it allows the heat to surround the food from all sides. The result is that the food almost cooks itself. As long as you keep the heat even and consistent, you won't need to rotate the food for it to cook evenly.

A common mistake when cooking with indirect heat is to turn off one side of the grill and just set the food there. But that's not ideal, as the food closest to the lit burner gets most of the heat. It's better to have the heat come from both sides, a method that involves creating a ring of heat around the food.

It's also possible to use both methods. This involves searing the meat initially over direct heat, then finishing it over indirect.

This combo method is a time-honoured and well-respected tradition. It's also the grill version of the way most restaurants chefs cook almost everything — searing on the stovetop, then finishing in the oven.

Now that you know about direct and indirect cooking, there is no better recipe than Beer Can Chicken to test it out. If you make it once, you'll make it over and over again.

When preparing this recipe, use a porcelain chicken "sitter" because it stabilizes the chicken as it grills. Some kitchenware companies also sell metal and wire versions.

They all serve the same purpose — an easy and stable way to prop a whole chicken upright and over a can or container of beer during cooking.

You can do it without a sitter, but take care to position the chicken steadily.

Ingredients

- 4- to 5-lb whole chicken, patted dry
- Olive oil
- 2 tbsp favourite dry rub for meat (or a blend of kosher salt and ground black pepper), divided
- 12-oz can beer

1. Heat the grill to high, then prepare it for cooking over indirect heat.

2. Coat the chicken lightly with oil, then season it inside and out with 1 tablespoon of the dry rub. Set aside.

3. Open the beer can and pour out about 1/4 cup of the beer. Make an extra hole in the top of the can using a church key-style can opener. Sprinkle the remaining tablespoon of the dry rub inside the beer can. Place the beer can in the centre of the cooking grate (or in the sitter, according to product directions) over indirect medium heat.

4. Sit the chicken on top of the beer can. The chicken will appear to be sitting on the grate.

5. Cover the grill and cook the chicken for 1 to 1 1/2 hours, or until the breast area reaches 165 F and the thighs reach 180 F. Use tongs to carefully transfer the chicken, lifting it off the beer can, to a platter. Let it rest for 10 minutes before carving. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ ELIZABETH KARMEL, GRILLING AND SOUTHERN FOOD EXPERT

Just Opened: Bent

Dundas West has a new restaurant serving up fantastic fusion, and it's got pedigree. Helmed by Kai and Levi Bent-Lee — yes, the sons of Canadian celebrity Chef Susur Lee — Bent is their take on what a great restaurant should be.

The kitchen is run by Lee senior, with a menu filled with items like smoked cod and taro tacos, but the restaurant is the sons' vision. 777 Dundas Street West.

Just Opened: Sauce on Danforth

Continuing Toronto's love affair with Prohibition Era cocktails is Sauce on Danforth, a quaint bar serving up a beauty selection of classic concoctions like the French 75, Harvey Wallbanger and Tom Collins.

Not to be outdone, the kitchen is sending out some sharable bites, among them prosciutto wrapped asparagus and smoked chicken salad puffs. 1376 Danforth Avenue.

Just Opened: Hapa Izakaya

The trend toward fanciful Japanese cuisine dominance in the city continues with the opening of Hapa Izakaya.

Last night. Yes, this brand spankin' new spot is a West Coast transplant, and is bringing their traditional and out-of-the-box Izakaya menu to the College Street strip. Find it at 602 College Street.

Just Re-Opened: PRAGUE

PRAGUE restaurant — that stalwart Queen West locale that served up traditional Eastern European fare and had an accompanying deli — closed earlier this year for a complete overhaul and renovation.

It re-opened a couple weeks ago, with a beautiful new dining space, large bar for the city's nightlife, and a completely redone menu. 638 Queen Street West.

Ravens to pay tribute to Modell

The Baltimore Ravens and the family of Art Modell will stage a silent tribute to team's former majority owner Saturday by placing his casket on the team's home field.

David Modell said he and his brother, John, were at their father's side on Thursday when he "died peacefully of natural causes."

He was 87.

Modell was among the most important figures in the NFL as owner of the Cleveland Browns, which became the Ravens after he took the team to Baltimore in 1996 in a move that tarnished his reputation as one of the league's most innovative and influential owners. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fehr, Bettman and Daly decline salary during lockout

None of the top executives involved in the NHL's collective bargaining negotiations will continue to be paid if the league enacts a lockout next week.

Donald Fehr, the executive director of the NHL Players' Association, says he stopped drawing a salary on July 1 and a source told The Canadian Press that commissioner Gary Bettman and deputy commissioner Bill Daly plan to follow suit if a new agreement can't be reached by Sept. 15. Vital 2014 qualifiers ahead for Canada

The Road to Brazil.
Getting three points will be crucial for men's national soccer squad in Friday's home match against Panama

To get to the 2014 World Cup, Canada faces at least 14 more matches.

But the next two could shed a lot of light on how much of that journey the Canadian men's soccer team will get to take.

Canada plays Panama in a vital home-and-away series that opens Friday at Toronto's BMO Field before moving to Panama City on Tuesday.

"The next two games for us are huge," said 32-year-old captain Kevin McKenna. "Especially (Friday) night. It's probably the biggest game I've played in with the national team, probably every player here also.

"I think we're all looking forward to it. Obviously everyone's a bit on edge."

Picking up points at home is crucial in qualifying. Poor performances on Canadian soil have cost the national team in recent qualifying campaigns and Stephen Hart's squad missed an opportunity with a 0-0 draw with Honduras in June.

"Every home game is a must win," said midfielder Patrice Bernier.

Panama leads the group with six points from two matches. Canada is second with four points from its two matches. Honduras has one point and Cuba none.

"They have been very consistent over the last four years," Hart said of Panama.

With Honduras, ranked No. 72 in the world, expected to pick up points against No. 142 Cuba, the group standings could change dramatically over the next week. Canada does not want to be left behind.

The top two teams will advance to the six-country final round of qualifying in CONCACAF, which covers North and Central America and the Caribbean.

That group will send three to Brazil with a fourth CONCACAF country meeting a team from Oceania in a playoff to see who joins them.

Panama is currently ranked 50th in the world, and third in CONCACAF behind No. 21 Mexico and the 33rd-ranked U.S. Hart, whose team is currently No. 73 to rank eighth in the region, has maintained from the get-go that the Panamanians will be Canada's toughest foe in this round.

Panama is led by FC Dallas striker Blaz Perez, who scored both goals in an earlier 2-0 win in Honduras.

"He scores goals with his head, with his feet.... He's always scored goals, wherever he's played," said Hart.

Another threat is Luis Tejada, a striker whose stoppage-time goal eliminated Canada from last year's Gold Cup. Panama made it to the semifinals before losing 1-0 to the U.S. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Going for goals

Key components of head coach Stephen Hart's Canadian player pool have been in good form lately.

- Patrice Bernier. The Montreal Impact veteran midfielder from Brossard, Que., was just named MLS player of the week and has represented Canada 47 times.
- Dwayne De Rosario. The Toronto-born attacking midfielder with D.C. United recently became the seventh player in MLS history to score 100 goals and is the focal point of Canada's attack.
- Simeon Jackson. The Jamaica-born, Mississauga-raised striker scored in English Premier League club Norwich City's 1-1 draw with Queen's Park Rangers on August 25.

Ferrer finds a bit extra in marathon match

David Ferrer reacts after defeating Janko Tipsarevic in five sets at the U.S. Open Thursday in New York City. MIKE STOBE/GETTY IMAGES

David Ferrer seemed bothered when his opponent got a mid-game medical timeout. He was down a break in the fifth set.

In the end, though, the indefatigable Spaniard was barely better, as he usually is when matches go the distance.

With his high-energy brand of leg-churning, ball-chasing tennis, the fourth-seeded Ferrer outlasted eighth-seeded Janko Tipsarevic of Serbia 6-3, 6-7 (5), 2-6, 6-3, 7-6 (4) in 4 hours, 31 minutes Thursday to reach the U.S. Open semifinals for the second time.

Ferrer trailed 4-1 in the last set, but in the next game, Tipsarevic slammed to the ground while chasing a drop shot and stayed down for a few moments. Tipsarevic later had his right thigh taped up.

Ferrer, also a semifinalist at Flushing Meadows in 2007, has won four consecutive five-setters and is 17-9 overall.

When the match ended on Tipsarevic's backhand into the net, Ferrer raised his arms, then knelt near the baseline. The weary foes met at the net for a hug. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The CFL season has been full of ups and downs at the halfway point of the campaign. Two finalists for last year's top rookie award are a couple of the unforeseen highlights so far in 2012. Scan the code for the story.

‘Super’ Mario Williams feels like he’s a rookie again with the Bills

NFL. High-profile defensive end makes his debut for Buffalo as Tebow Time starts for New York Jets on Sunday

It’s Tebow Time for the New York Jets, and Super Mario’s big debut for the Buffalo Bills.

Tim Tebow and Mario Williams, two of the NFL’s highest-profile players, switched teams this off-season and are hoping to have huge impacts — starting with the regular-season opener at MetLife Stadium on Sunday.

“I really don’t get nervous, but it does feel like my rookie year all over again,” said Williams, who signed a six-year, $100-million US deal with the Bills in March after six years in Houston. “It does feel like I got drafted again. I’m pretty sure it’ll be a little bit, a little anxiety, but it’ll be fine.”

The Bills are banking on the fact that Williams will add a big-time boost to their defence, wreaking havoc on opposing quarterbacks every Sunday and helping Buffalo improve a defence that managed just 29 sacks last season.

“You kind of sit back and go, ‘whew,’” Jets coach Rex Ryan said. “He’s a tremendous player. Your first thought is you’re going against him, then you think, ‘He does get to play New England twice, so that’s kind of a good thing.’ If we can survive, hopefully New England will struggle with him. That’s it. It’s like, ‘Whew.’ The conference, our league is getting better. You steal one of the top pass rushers in the game. Clearly, you think, ‘Oh man.’ You hope that he doesn’t go into our division, but here he is.”

And, so is Tebow, the popular backup quarterback whose role in New York’s offence has been kept mostly under wraps all off-season to keep defences on their toes. Tebow will work in new offensive co-ordinator Tony Sparano’s wildcat packages and as the personal punt protector on special teams.

Beyond that, anybody’s guess is as good as Buffalo’s.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How much Tebow time?

Tim Tebow, acquired by New York from Denver in March, will work anywhere from a handful to 20 plays each week, depending on the game and the opponent.

- He and starter Mark Sanchez have said all the right things throughout the off-season, but many fans and media insist this is a combustible situation that can have fans chanting for Tebow to supplant Sanchez at the first sign of trouble.

Four Changes that can Drop Car Insurance Rates

Drivers should be aware of these changes that could lower their rates.

Car insurance is a bill that everyone would like to see reduced, and fortunately there are a number of ways to accomplish that. A few simple changes can save you a lot of money on your car insurance bill.

Changing your Deductible. The deductible can make a difference on car insurance premiums, but many people are afraid to carry a higher deductible because they don’t want to have to pay in case of an accident. The truth is that carrying a higher deductible may save you a lot of money over time – more than enough to make up for having to pay it should such an accident occur.

A New Car. If you go from a vehicle that tends to have higher insurance rates such as a luxury car, sports car, or large SUV, to a smaller or more economical vehicle that has a lower risk level for the insurance company, you could see those rates go down. There are even some cars that come with discounts, such as those that are considered to be highly fuel-efficient or hybrids, or cars with the latest in anti-theft technology.

Shopping Around For a New Company. Changing to a new insurance company could be the change that brings your rates down the most, as each insurance company charges different rates to insure the exact same person. But unless you take the time to shop around regularly, you will never know how much you could save.

Tickets and Accidents Falling Off Your Record. If you’ve been paying for an at-fault accident or a ticket on your premiums, the day that it comes off will be a good day for your insurance premiums. Remember that while the charge will come off your driving record on the day it was officially recorded against you, it will likely come off your insurance bill on renewal.

Remember that the very best way to keep your insurance premiums low is to shop around for better rates. Insurance quoting sites like

InsuranceHotline.com can help by comparing your insurance rate against over 30 car insurance companies to find you a lower rate available for your driving profile.

The difference between “oh no!” and “oh.”

Why pay extra for the exact same thing? Our network of over 30 premier insurance companies on InsuranceHotline.com could mean the difference between paying a lot more than you anticipated on insurance, and paying a whole lot less.

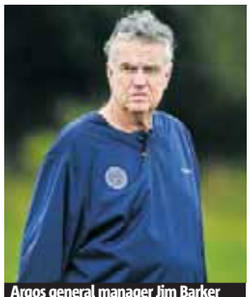
NO ROOM ON ARGOS FOR AGING RAMBO

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
toronto@metronews.ca

Toronto Argos: We know Argos GM Jim Barker is loyal to a fault when handling veteran players, none more so than Ken-Yon Rambo. Surely, Rambo's lackadaisical Labour Day performance in Hamilton, albeit in his first game back from injury, will be his last CFL game. Rambo, who turns 34 next month, made two insignificant catches, dropped a pass and was called offside. If Argos newcomer Jason Barnes is incapable of securing that position, it's time to start beating the bushes for new talent.

B.C. Lions: You can't blame B.C. for taking a cautious approach over the potential return of former rookie of the year Solomon Elimimian, cut from two NFL camps and has until Sept. 13 to report to the Lions. If the linebacker does return to Vancouver only to play out his option, he is merely a short-term upgrade whose head and heart might be elsewhere the rest of the CFL season. Re-signing Elimimian to a long-term deal is a priority.



Argos general manager Jim Barker has a decision on his hands regarding Ken-Yon Rambo. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Edmonton Eskimos: Like it or not, Eskimos head coach Kavis Reed has a quarterbacking controversy in his locker-room. On one hand, it's great to have aging QB Kerry Joseph on the roster as insurance against Steven Jyles faltering. But now that Joseph's looked more than capable in the last two appearances, going back to Jyles might be an unpopular decision.

Calgary Stampeders: It's comical to still see the Stampeders taking stupid penalties game after game, year after year. The team's long-standing Achilles' heal is a key reason Tom Higgins lost his job in Calgary after the 2007 season, and years later the club continues to pile up the simply selfish infractions under John Hufnagel. If fines don't work, benchings (or worse) is the only answer.

Saskatchewan Roughriders: Nothing like a 52-0 shutout to end a losing skid and buoy the spirits of the Rider Nation's doomsdayers. The Riders aren't that good and the Bombers aren't that bad, but suddenly the Green Machine is a playoff contender again after weeks of fans demanding the club blow it up and start over, beginning with QB Darian Durant.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Lose again this week and the Bombers will launch a massive airlift of players in and out of Winnipeg. Although still just two points out of third in the East, falling to 2-8 would trigger significant change on the field if not the front office.

CFL. Barker always has a backup plan

When kicker Noel Prefontaine re-aggravated his hip problems earlier this summer against the Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Argos GM Jim Barker got on the phone right away with Swayze Waters in Jackson, Miss.

Barker didn't have to think twice. He already knew who he would call if the longtime Argo couldn't play any more.

"There's not a player on this team, that if he goes down, I don't know exactly who we're going to get as a replacement," Barker said.

Quoted

"We believe at this point in the season that we have a great opportunity to be a Grey Cup championship team."

Argos GM Jim Barker

In Waters' case, he had just been cut by the Edmonton Eskimos. He was on a plane to Toronto within a few hours and signed the next day. He has become one of the Argos' most valuable players. On Monday, his 33-yard field goal with 29 seconds left on the clock gave Toronto a 33-30 win in the Labour Day Classic in Hamilton.

The Argos (5-4) are getting ready for the rematch Saturday at Rogers Centre. The Tiger-Cats, losers of four straight, are now 3-6 in the Eastern Division. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

IN THE LIGHT OF TRUTH
THE GRAIL MESSAGE
"...I wish to fill the gaps which have so far always remained unanswered in the souls of men as burning questions, and which never leave any serious thinker in peace, if he honestly seeks for the Truth."
ABD-RU-SHIN

The Grail Message deals clearly and objectively with important questions which move any serious seeker for the Truth:

- The Purpose of Life on Earth
- Woman and her Vocation
- The Divine Laws in Creation
- The Recognition of God
- Life after Death
- Reincarnation
- The Son of Man
- World Judgment and End Time
- Hereditary Sin
- The Cosmic Turning Point
- The Spiritual Significance of World Events
- Fate and Destiny
- Marriage
- and many more

Horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 20
You will do almost anything to avoid boredom but the planets warn that if you go too far today, you might later decide that boredom is not such a bad thing after all. Never forget that actions have consequences.

Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Someone is sure to disapprove of what you do today. Should that stop you from doing it? No way! If anything, you should show your independence by doing it even more. They will get the message.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21
If you feel that your life is in a bit of a rut you should do something about it today. Try doing the opposite of what you usually do. Don't worry that others might not approve — that's what makes it fun.

Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You will get the chance to change something that should really have been changed weeks, if not months, ago. If it's a habit that is holding you back be brave and cut it out of your life once and for all.

Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Make it your business to get involved in a cause that helps people who are too weak to help themselves. Don't worry that by doing so you might make powerful enemies — you have powerful friends to protect you.

Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
With the Sun in your sign linked to Jupiter today you won't hesitate to do something out of the ordinary. Even people who know you well will shake their heads and wonder what's come over you.

Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
You seem to have come into some money but don't spend too much time admiring your good fortune because you need to build on what you've been given. It doesn't have to be easy come, easy go.

Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
What happens today may catch you by surprise but you can still profit from it if you act quickly. The planets indicate that if you take a risk it will pay off in a big way. What have you got to lose?

Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
The direct approach is the best approach, especially where partnerships are concerned. Let others know how you feel and don't worry that you might hurt their feelings. It's your feelings that matter, so tell it like it is.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
Today's Sun-Jupiter link will help you shake things up a bit, especially where your daily routine is concerned. In a nutshell, you need to be more adventurous. Never let the past or old habits hold you back.

Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Do something that takes even your best friends by surprise today. It's time you reminded certain people, both at home and at work, that you have a mind of your own and are not afraid to use it.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You may be perfectly entitled to get annoyed with someone and lay down the law but isn't there a better way to deal with the situation? If you upset them needlessly it could be self-defeating in the long-term.
